

appropriate FY 1996 funds for this program until April 26, 1996. The Secretary must make new awards no later than September 30, 1996. Moreover, the Safe and Drug-Free Schools and Communities National Programs statute is designed to address emergency needs in drug and violence prevention. Programs need to be implemented as early as possible in the 1996–97 school year. Due to the delay in the appropriation of FY 1996 funds, it is now impracticable to receive public comments and still allow FY 1996 awards to be made by September 30, 1996.

Intergovernmental Review

This program is subject to the requirements of Executive Order 12372 (Intergovernmental Review of Federal Programs) and the regulations in 34 CFR Part 79.

The objective of the Executive order is to foster an intergovernmental partnership and to strengthen federalism by relying on processes developed by State and local governments for coordination and review of proposed Federal financial assistance.

In accordance with the order, this document is intended to provide early notification of the Department's specific plans and actions for this program.

Description of Program

The seventh National Education Goal provides that, by the year 2000, all schools in America will be free of drugs and violence and the unauthorized presence of firearms and alcohol and offer a disciplined environment that is conducive to learning. The State grant portion of the Safe and Drug-Free Schools and Communities Act (SDFSCA) provides funding to 97 percent of school districts in the nation to assist them in preventing violence in and around schools, promoting safety and discipline for students, and preventing the illegal use of alcohol, tobacco, and other drugs. The Safe and Drug Free Schools Federal Activities Grants Program reinforces that effort by supporting the development of innovative programs that (1) demonstrate effective new methods of ensuring safe and drug-free schools and communities, and (2) ultimately will provide models of proven effective practice that will assist schools and communities around the nation to improve their programs under the SDFSCA.

Public and private nonprofit organizations and individuals receiving funds under this program may not use funds for construction (except for minor remodeling needed to carry out the activities described in the application) and medical services, drug treatment or rehabilitation, except for pupil services or referral to treatment for students who are victims of or witnesses to crime or who use alcohol, tobacco, or drugs.

The term 'nonprofit', as applied to a school, agency, organization, or institution means a school, agency, organization, or institution owned and operated by one or more nonprofit corporations or associations, no part of the net earnings of which inures, or may lawfully inure, to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual.

In making awards under this grant program, the Secretary may take into consideration the geographic distribution and diversity of activities addressed by the projects, in addition to the rank order of applications.

Background

Creating safe, disciplined, and drug-free learning environments for all students is essential to those students achieving to high academic standards and schools promoting educational excellence. It is clear, however, that in too many of our schools, students, teachers, and staff feel threatened, are abused, or are victims of violent acts. In addition, drug use among young people threatens their health and their ability to master new information. This announcement addresses four priorities designed to create safe, disciplined, and drug-free learning environments for all students.

Priority 1 seeks to infuse research-based knowledge about "what works" into the design, development and implementation of school-based strategies to prevent drug use among youth. This priority supports collaboration between local educational agencies and research institutions, including institutions of higher education, to develop and implement effective research-based programs and strategies to prevent youth drug use.

Drug use by adolescents has increased significantly in each of the last several years, reversing downward trends noted between 1979 and 1991. The 1995 "Monitoring the Future" study conducted by the Institute for Social Research at the University of Michigan documented the fourth consecutive year of increases in drug use among 8th graders and the third consecutive year of increases among 10th and 12th graders.

Equally alarming, two important determinants of drug use, perceived harmfulness of drugs and peer disapproval of drug use, are moving in the wrong direction. The proportion of students seeing drugs as dangerous continued to decline in 1995, while the norms against using illicit drugs generally have been softening in recent years. These trends have lead Dr. Lloyd Johnston, principal investigator for the Monitoring the Future survey, to suggest that we are in a "relapse" phase in the longer-term epidemic of youth drug use. Among the reasons that may account for this relapse are (1) decreased national attention to drug use among youth, and (2) failure to design and implement drug prevention programs of demonstrated effectiveness based on findings from research.

This priority directs funds to the development and implementation of innovative, research-based drug prevention strategies for effectively dealing with alcohol and other drug problems identified by schools and school districts. Strategies to be employed by applicants could vary from implementing or enhancing prevention curricula to integrating drug and alcohol prevention activities into the overall operation of the school and redesigning professional development, but should be based upon current, up-to-date research.

Examples of prevention approaches that research has demonstrated as effective, and that applicants might propose to develop and implement, are social influence approaches that include resistance skills training, and approaches that focus on personal and social skills training. Gilbert Botvin, Director of the Institute for Prevention Research at the New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center, in a 1992 article entitled "School-Based and Community-Based Prevention Approaches," notes that resistance skills approaches "generally teach students how to recognize situations in which they will have a high likelihood of experiencing peer pressure to smoke, drink, or use drugs so that these high-risk situations can be avoided. In addition, students are taught how to handle situations in which they might experience peer pressure to engage in substance use."

Personal and Social Skills training models tend to be more comprehensive than other approaches. According to Botvin, they are based on "social learning" theory and "problem behavior" theory. "Substance abuse is conceptualized as a socially learned and functional behavior, resulting from the interplay of social and personal factors. Substance use behavior is learned through modeling and reinforcement and is influenced by cognitions, attitudes, and beliefs * * *. The intent of these programs is to teach the kind of generic skills for coping with life that will have a relatively broad application * * * in contrast to the resistance skills training approaches which are designed to teach skills with a problem-specific focus."

Priority 2 invites applications for innovative, research-based strategies to remove firearms and other weapons from schools. A small but growing number of students find bringing a weapon to school acceptable. A Centers for Disease Control study reports that, in 1990, 1 in 24 students carried a gun to school in the 30 days before the study, and by 1993 the incidence had risen to 1 in 12 students. A 1993 Louis Harris poll showed that 35 percent of children aged 6 to 12 fear their lives will be cut short by gun violence. Knives or other devices used to inflict intentional injury also are increasingly evident in schools.

The Gun-Free Schools Act of 1994 requires States that receive funds under the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 (ESEA) to have in effect a law requiring local educational agencies to expel from school for a period of not less than one year students who are determined to have brought a weapon to school. Local educational agencies that receive ESEA funds are required to refer to the criminal justice or juvenile delinquency system any student who brings a firearm or weapon to school. Under the Gun-Free Schools Act, "weapon" means a firearm. For purposes of this grant program, however, a weapon may also be a knife, club, or other device used to inflict intentional injury.

Priority 3 encourages innovative, research-based programs to prevent truancy and address the needs of youth who are out of the education mainstream. For too many of our young people, regular school attendance and high school graduation are no longer the norm. In addition to truants, youth out of the education mainstream include dropouts, children who are afraid to go to school, children who have been suspended or expelled, and children in the juvenile justice system who need to maintain or enhance their educational status and be reintegrated into the school system upon their release from residential placement. Among the reasons for truancy that have been identified are student drug use, violence in or near the school, association with friends who are truant or absent, lack of family support for regular school attendance, and inability to keep pace with academic requirements.

The social and personal costs of failure to attend school are clear. Truancy and dropping out of school are significant risk factors for delinquency and eventual adult criminality. In 1992, on a national basis, juveniles accounted for 18 percent of all violent crime arrests and 33 percent of all serious property crime reports. Many of the arrests occur between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. Monday through Friday when these juveniles should be in school.

Priority 4 addresses innovative, research-based approaches to preventing violent, aggressive, intimidating, or other disruptive behavior arising from bullying, sexual harassment, or other cause. Creating a safe and disciplined school environment that is conducive to learning is critical to achieving high standards for all students and developing a highly skilled and motivated workforce able to compete in a global economy.

When violent, aggressive, intimidating, or other disruptive behavior occurs in classrooms, on school grounds, or in the community, teachers are diverted from their primary task of teaching, students are unable to achieve to their full potential, and parents may fear to send their children to school. Bullying behavior, which may manifest itself at an early age, presents an important challenge for educators and other youth-serving professionals. Evidence suggests that schoolyard bullies who are not taught how to behave and cope with frustration are very likely headed for a lifetime of failure and involvement in the justice system. Research shows that a disproportionately high number of these children underachieve in school or drop out, perform below potential throughout their careers, land in prison for committing adult crimes, and become abusive spouses and parents. The earlier young people begin to exhibit problem behaviors, the greater the risk that they will become serious chronic delinquents and substance-abusing or alcoholic individuals. Victimization also is a serious problem because it can be a major distraction from the whole educational process. Bullying affects school attendance and the overall campus climate and safety. Victims understandably fear school itself and the abuse they know awaits them there.

Violent, aggressive, intimidating, or other disruptive behavior arising out of sexual harassment undermines the ability of schools to provide a safe and equitable learning or workplace environment. According to a 1993 survey by the American Association of University Women ("Hostile Hallways"), 85 percent of girls and 76 percent of boys surveyed say they have experienced unwanted and unwelcome sexual behavior that interferes with their lives. Among the outcomes of sexual harassment are not wanting to attend school, decreased class participation, greater difficulty paying attention in school, lower grades, and feeling afraid or scared.

Priorities

The priorities in the notice of final priorities for this program, as published elsewhere in this issue of the Federal Register and repeated below, apply to this competition.

(3) Identify the child development framework used to identify appropriate strategies for intervening in violent, aggressive, intimidating, or other disruptive behavior;

(4) Provide information on the extent to which educators, law enforcement officials, parents, and students have been involved in the development and implementation of interventions for youths who engage in violent, aggressive, intimidating, or other disruptive behaviors and for youths who are victims of such behaviors; and

(5) Identify performance goals for the project and provide a description of how progress toward achieving goals will be measured.

Competitive Preference Priority

Within the absolute priorities specified in this notice, the Secretary, under 34 CFR 75.105(c)(2)(i) and the Safe and Drug-Free Schools and Communities Act, gives preference to applications that meet the following competitive priority. The Secretary awards five (5) points to an application that meets this competitive priority. The prospective lower tier participant further agrees by submitting this proposal that it will include the clause titled "Certification Regarding Debarment, Suspension, Ineligibility, and Voluntary Exclusion—Lower Tier Covered Transactions," without modification, in all lower tier covered transactions and in all solicitations for lower tier covered transactions.
7. A participant in a covered transaction may rely upon a certification of a prospective participant in a lower tier covered transaction that it is not debarred, suspended, ineligible, or voluntarily excluded from the covered transaction, unless it knows that the certification is erroneous. A participant may decide the method and frequency by which it determines the eligibility of its principals. Each participant may, but is not required to, check the Nonprocurement List.
8. Nothing contained in the foregoing shall be construed to require establishment of a system of records in order to render in good faith the certification required by this clause. The knowledge and information of a participant is not required to exceed that which is normally possessed by a prudent person in the ordinary course of business dealings.
9. Except for transactions authorized under paragraph 5 of these instructions, if a participant in a covered transaction knowingly enters into a lower tier covered transaction with a person who is suspended, debarred, ineligible, or voluntarily excluded from participation in this transaction, in addition to other remedies available to the Federal Government, the department or agency with which this transaction originated may pursue available remedies, including suspension and/or debarment.

Certification

- (1) The prospective lower tier participant certifies, by submission of this proposal, that neither it nor its principals are presently debarred, suspended, proposed for debarment, declared ineligible, or voluntarily excluded from participation in this transaction by any Federal department or agency.
- (2) Where the prospective lower tier participant is unable to certify to any of the statements in this certification, such prospective participant shall attach an explanation to this proposal.

Notice to All Applicants

Thank you for your interest in this program. The purpose of this enclosure is to inform you about a new provision in the Department of Education's General Education Provisions Act (GEPA) that applies to applicants for new grant awards under Department programs. This provision is section 427 of GEPA, enacted as part of the Improving America's Schools Act of 1994 (Pub. L. 103-382).

To Whom Does This Provision Apply?

Section 427 of GEPA affects applicants for new discretionary grant awards under this program. ALL APPLICANTS FOR NEW AWARDS MUST INCLUDE INFORMATION IN THEIR APPLICATIONS TO ADDRESS THIS NEW PROVISION IN ORDER TO RECEIVE FUNDING UNDER THIS PROGRAM.

What Does This Provision Require?

Section 427 requires each applicant for funds (other than an individual person) to include in its application a description of the steps the applicant proposes to take to ensure equitable access to, and participation in, its federally-assisted program for students, teachers, and other program beneficiaries with special needs.

This section allows applicants discretion in developing the required description. The statute highlights six types of barriers that can impede equitable access or participation that you may address: gender, race, national origin, color, disability, or age. Based on local circumstances, you can determine whether these or other barriers may prevent your students, teachers, etc. from equitable access or participation. Your description need not be lengthy; you may provide a clear and succinct description of how you plan to address those barriers that are applicable to your circumstances. In addition, the information may be provided in a single narrative, or, if appropriate, may be discussed in connection with related topics in the application.

Section 427 is not intended to duplicate the requirements of civil rights statutes, but rather to ensure that, in designing their projects, applicants for Federal funds address equity concerns that may affect the ability of certain potential beneficiaries to fully participate in the project and to achieve to high standards. Consistent with program requirements and its approved application, an applicant may use the Federal funds awarded to it to eliminate barriers it identifies.

What are Examples of How an Applicant Might Satisfy the Requirement of This Provision?

The following examples may help illustrate how an applicant may comply with section 427.

(1) An applicant that proposes to carry out an adult literacy project serving, among others, adults with limited English proficiency, might describe in its application how it intends to distribute a brochure about the proposed project to such potential participants in their native language.

(2) An applicant that proposes to develop instructional materials for classroom use might describe how it will make the materials available on audio tape or in braille for students who are blind.

(3) An applicant that proposes to carry out a model science program for secondary students and is concerned that girls may be less likely than boys to enroll in the course, might indicate how it tends to conduct "outreach" efforts to girls, to encourage their enrollment.

We recognize that many applicants may already be implementing effective steps to ensure equity of access and participation in their grant programs, and we appreciate your cooperation in responding to the requirements of this provision.
