SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The PVWMA has identified and evaluated several water supply alternatives to meet its future water supply needs and manage seawater intrusion into the Pajaro Valley groundwater basin. These alternatives were evaluated in the Final Program Environmental Impact Report for the Basin Management Plan, under CEQA, State Clearing House No. 9302-3035, and certified in 1993. The findings and recommendations of this document will be incorporated by reference in preparation of site-specific analysis of the Water Supply Project components. The alternatives to be considered for this DEIS include:

- A long-term water supply contract for CVP water.
- The purchase and assignment of long-term CVP water supply contracts from willing sellers.
- Transfer of CVP water supply to PVWMA.
- The acquisition of imported water supplies from non-CVP sources possibly including the California State Water Project and purchase of water rights south of the Delta.

- No Action.

The alternatives to be considered at a site-specific level include:

- Use of San Felipe Project for conveyance of imported supplies and No Action.
- Physical connection of the proposed imported water supply pipeline to the San Felipe Project and No Action.

The imported water supply component of the water supply project will allow PVWMA to meet its projected annual water supply needs from various imported and local sources, including water conservation, managed groundwater pumping, development of local supplies, and importation of new supplies. Imported water supplies will be conveyed using the San Felipe Project facilities and the existing turnout on the San Felipe Project.

The PVWMA is preparing two EIR's. One EIR will analyze development of local water supply projects and a distribution system. The other EIR will analyze construction of an import water supply pipeline and a change in the place of use for CVP and other imported water rights.

The PVWMA held scoping meetings on the above water supply project environmental review documents on February 11, 12, and 13, 1997.

Dated: June 23, 1997.

Acting Area Manager, South-Central California Area Office.
