

Tennessee/East Tennessee has also specified locations in western Pennsylvania, central Tennessee, and offshore Louisiana where it proposes altering maximum allowable operating pressure to suit local conditions.

The company believes superior safety can be achieved by enhanced damage prevention, increased patrolling, the use of internal inspection tools, and the reallocation of funds to re-habilitation projects on its higher risk pipeline segments.

OPS is interested in entering into consultations with Tennessee/East Tennessee because its risk management program has the potential to:

- Provide examples of data collection and analysis tools for supporting risk management; and
- Provide examples of how companies can use risk management to re-allocate resources to re-habilitation projects and other high value safety activities.

The proposed Tennessee/East Tennessee demonstration project also has the potential to help OPS examine the benefits of risk management as a regulatory alternative under a variety of conditions because of the following distinguishing features:

- Consideration of worker safety as well as public safety in risk assessment;
- Examination of the risk control potential of a number of existing regulations;
- The use of risk-based arguments for establishing MAOP; and
- The breadth of the demonstration site (which includes four OPS regions: Southern, Eastern, Central, and Southwest; and 17 states).

Tennessee/East Tennessee's risk management program coordinator and point-of-contact is Daron Moore. He can be reached at Tennessee Gas Pipeline Company, P.O. Box 2511, Houston, TX, 77252-2511, or by calling (713) 757-4023.

Issued in Washington, DC, on October 6, 1997.

Richard B. Felder,

Associate Administrator for Pipeline Safety.
