SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

On September 22, 1997, the Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) received a petition (APHIS Petition No. 97-265-01p) from AgrEvo USA Company (AgrEvo) of Wilmington, DE, seeking a determination that a corn line designated as Transformation Event CBH-351 (event CBH-351), which has been genetically engineered for insect resistance and glufosinate herbicide tolerance, does not present a plant pest risk and, therefore, is not a regulated article under APHIS' regulations in 7 CFR part 340.

On February 23, 1998, APHIS published a notice in the Federal Register (63 FR 8897-8898, Docket No. 97-119-1) announcing that the AgrEvo petition had been received and was available for public review. The notice also discussed the role of APHIS, the Environmental Protection Agency, and the Food and Drug Administration in regulating the subject corn line and food products derived from it. In the notice, APHIS solicited written comments from the public as to whether this corn line posed a plant pest risk. The comments were to have been received by APHIS on or before April 24, 1998. During the designated 60-day comment period, APHIS received 2,271 form letters from farmers expressing support for the subject petition, and a comment letter from a research entomologist at a research unit of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Research Service providing data and information that event CBH-351 corn effectively controls European corn borer (ECB) during all corn developmental stages.

Analysis

Corn event CBH-351 has been genetically engineered to express a Cry9C insect control protein derived from the common soil bacterium Bacillus thuringiensis subsp. tolworthi (Bt tolworthi). The petitioner stated that the Cry9C protein is effective in protecting the subject corn line from damage caused by ECB larvae throughout the growing season. The subject corn line also expresses the bar gene derived from the bacterium Streptomyces hygroscopicus. The bar gene encodes the phosphinothricin acetyltransferase (PAT) enzyme, which, when introduced into the plant cell, confers tolerance to the herbicide glufosinate. The particle bombardment method was used to transfer the added genes into the recipient inbred corn line (PA91 x H99) x H99, and their expression is controlled in part by gene sequences derived from the plant pathogens Agrobacterium tumefaciens and cauliflower mosaic virus. While the subject corn line contains the bla selectable marker gene, which is normally expressed in bacteria, tests indicate that this gene is not expressed in the plant.

The subject corn line has been considered a regulated article under APHIS' regulations in 7 CFR part 340 because it contains gene sequences derived from plant pathogens. However, evaluation of field data reports from field tests of the corn conducted under APHIS notifications since 1995 indicates that there were no deleterious effects on plants, nontarget organisms, or the environment as a result of the environmental release of corn event CBH-351.

Determination

Based on its analysis of the data submitted by AgrEvo, a review of other scientific data and field tests of the subject corn line, and an analysis of comments from the public on the subject petition, APHIS has determined that corn event CBH-351: (1) Exhibits no plant pathogenic properties; (2) is no more likely to become a weed than corn lines developed by traditional breeding techniques; (3) is unlikely to increase the weediness potential for any other cultivated or wild species with which it can interbreed; (4) will not cause damage to raw or processed agricultural commodities; (5) will not harm threatened or endangered species or other organisms, such as bees, that are beneficial to agriculture; and (6) should not reduce the ability to control insects and weeds in corn or other crops when cultivated. Therefore, APHIS has concluded that the subject corn line and any progeny derived from crosses with other corn varieties will be as safe to grow as corn that is not subject to regulation under 7 CFR part 340.

The effect of this determination is that AgrEvo's corn event CBH-351 is no longer considered a regulated article under APHIS regulations in 7 CFR part 340. Therefore, the requirements pertaining to regulated articles under those regulations no longer apply to the field testing, importation, or interstate movement of the subject corn or its progeny. However, importation of corn event CBH-351 or seeds capable of propagation are still subject to the restrictions found in APHIS' foreign quarantine notices in 7 CFR part 319.

National Environmental Policy Act

An environmental assessment (EA) has been prepared to examine the potential environmental impacts associated with this determination. The EA was prepared in accordance with: (1) The National Environmental Policy Act of 1969, as amended (NEPA) (42 U.S.C. 4321 et seq.), (2) regulations of the Council on Environmental Quality for implementing the procedural provisions of NEPA (40 CFR parts 1500-1508), (3) USDA regulations implementing NEPA (7 CFR part 1b), and (4) APHIS' NEPA Implementing Procedures (7 CFR part 372). Based on that EA, APHIS has reached a finding of no significant impact (FONSI) with regard to its determination that AgrEvo's corn event CBH-351 and lines developed from it are no longer regulated articles under its regulations in 7 CFR part 340. Copies of the EA and the FONSI are available upon request from the individual listed under FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT.
