

contaminated soil and potential ingestion of contaminated ground water. Initially, it was not known if the groundwater had been contaminated by activities at the Site.

Remedial action began in 1983, when EPA conducted an Emergency Response Action which included the installation of ten groundwater monitoring wells to determine if Site contamination had impacted the groundwater. No groundwater contamination was identified. Further remedial actions removed approximately 37,000 tons of contaminated soil of which over 10,000 tons required treatment prior to disposal.

The initial ROD cleanup levels required removal of contaminants down to industrial use criteria which allows for hazardous materials to remain on-Site. The ESD, signed in 1998, lowered the cleanup levels to require compliance with residential health-based criteria.

With the implementation and completion of all remedial activities, the Site no longer poses any threat to human health or the environment, ensuring that no further action is required. Site monitoring wells and a domestic well have been abandoned, and, at this time, there are no other operation and maintenance activities to be performed at the Site. EPA required institutional controls are unnecessary because no hazardous substances were left on-Site above levels that allow for unlimited use and unrestricted exposure. The five-year review requirement of section 121 (c) of SARA is not applicable.

D. Public Participation

Community input has been sought by EPA Region 10 throughout the cleanup process at the Site. Information repositories were established at the Pocatello Public Library and the EPA Region 10 office. Community concern about the Site has generally been limited. Community relations activities have included several public meetings, fact sheets, and newspaper notice of the two proposed plans. A limited number of comments were received on the proposed plans for the Site. EPA's response to these comments can be found in the Responsiveness Summaries of the RODs.

A copy of the Deletion Docket can be reviewed by the public at the Pocatello Public Library, or the EPA Region 10 Superfund Records Center. The Deletion Docket includes this document, the RODs, Amended ROD, Remedial Action Construction Report, and Final Site Close-Out Report. EPA Region 10 will also announce the availability of the Deletion Docket for public review in a local newspaper and informational fact sheet.

One of the three criteria for deletion specifies that EPA may delete a site from the NPL if "responsible parties or other persons have implemented all appropriate response actions required." EPA, with the concurrence of IDEQ, believes that this criterion for deletion has been met. Groundwater and soil data from the Site confirm that the ROD cleanup goals have been achieved. There is no significant threat to human health or the environment and, therefore, no further remedial action is necessary. Consequently, EPA is proposing deletion of this Site from the NPL. Documents supporting this action are available in the docket at the information repositories.
