SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Title: Homeowner Response to Wildfire Hazard Mitigation Incentives: What Works and What Doesn't.

OMB Number: 0596-NEW.

Type of Request: New.

Abstract: The cost of protecting private property in areas near public forests, the wildland-urban interface (WUI), is growing rapidly. Rising costs are largely due to efforts of the Forest Service and other Federal agencies to protect private property, even when the fires pose little threat to public land. The Forest Service would like to find ways to help local communities share responsibility for community fire protection. Some local communities have programs designed to encourage homeowners to create fire-safe landscapes. In this way, these communities and homeowners help protect private property.

The Forest Service is requesting Office of Management and Budget (OMB) approval to study a range of current community programs designed to encourage homeowner participation in wildfire protection. Researchers will collect information from community residents living in high-risk wildfire areas in four communities: Grand Haven, Michigan; Ruidoso, New Mexico; Larimer County, Colorado; and Oakland, California. These sites were chosen based on differences in defensible space policy approaches and wildfire risk levels.

Two researchers (one from a university and one from the Forest Service Northern Research Station) will analyze the data collected. These researchers are experts in applied social psychology and survey research.

A random sample of homeowners who live in high-risk wildfire areas in the four communities will be mailed survey questionnaires. The homeowners will be told that the participation in the survey is voluntary.

Participating homeowners will first complete a questionnaire, sharing perceptions and beliefs about the local wildfire hazard and local government response. Specifically, homeowners will be asked about their knowledge and understanding of local wildfire programs, their own efforts to protect their homes from wildfires, and reasons why they do or do not comply with local wildfire guidelines and laws. In addition, homeowners will be asked for their opinions about the risk of wildfires and the effectiveness and fairness of local wildfire protection programs and programs used by other communities.

This information will assist the Forest Service in its efforts to implement the Healthy Forest Restoration Act by supporting development of Community Wildfire Protection Plans as required under this Act (Pub. L. 108-148). The Agency will use the collected information to help communities develop wildfire protection programs most appropriate for local conditions. Development of programs by local homeowners may increase local support, participation, and compliance with the programs. Local community and homeowner participation in wildfire protection activities are critical components of a comprehensive strategy to protect private property.

Maximum Dollar Amount on Awards Under the Rural Economic Development Loan and Grant Program for Fiscal Year 2007; Correction

AGENCY: Rural Business-Cooperative Service, USDA.

ACTION: Notice; correction.

SUMMARY: The Rural Business-Cooperative Service (RBS) published a document in the Federal Register of Friday, December 8, 2006, [71 FR 71128] concerning the announcement of the maximum dollar amount under the Rural Economic Development Loan and Grant Program (REDLG). This document announces the actual amount available and the expanded eligibility requirements.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:

Cindy Mason, Loan Specialist, USDA Rural Development, STOP 3225, Room 6866, 1400 Independence Avenue, SW., Washington, DC 20250-3225. Telephone: (202) 690-1433, FAX: (202) 720-2213.

Correction

In the Federal Register of December 8, 2006, in FR Doc. E6-20871, on page 71128, in the third column, correct the SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION caption to read: RBS published a Notice of Funds Availability (NOFA) on December 8, 2006. Based on the Revised Continuing Appropriations Resolution, 2007 (2007 Appropriation), (Public Law 110-5), the total amount available for zero-interest loans is $24,752,477. As stated in the NOFA, the maximum loan and grant awards pursuant to 7 CFR 1703.28 is 3.0 percent of the program level rounded to the nearest $10,000, but no less than $200,000. Thus, the maximum dollar amount available per loan is $740,000. Total amount available for grants is $10,000,000. Thus, the maximum amount available per grant is $300,000.

Additionally, the 2007 Appropriation continued the REDLG eligibility requirements implemented in FY 2006. Therefore, an organization is considered to be eligible to participate in the REDLG program if it can be described as:

1. Any former Rural Utilities Service borrower that has repaid or prepaid an insured, direct, or guaranteed loan under the Rural Electrification Act;

2. Any not-for-profit utility that is eligible to receive an insured or direct loan under such act; or

3. Any borrower under such act.

The Regulations for these programs are at 7 CFR part 1703, subpart B. The maximum loan and grant awards are determined in accordance with 7 CFR 1703.28. The maximum loan and grant awards are calculated at 3.0 percent of the projected program levels, rounded to the nearest $10,000; however, as specified in 7 CFR 1703.28(b), regardless of the projected total amount that will be available, the maximum size may not be lower than $200,000. The projected program level during FY 2007 for zero-interest loans is $25,215,484.47, and the projected level for grants is $10,000,000. Applying the 3.0 percent to the program level for loans, rounded to the nearest $10,000, results in a projected maximum loan award of $740,000. Applying the specified 3.0 percent to the program level for grants results in an amount higher than $200,000. Therefore, the projected grant award for FY 2007 is $300,000.

Dated: May 1, 2007.
