In order to grant such exemptions under 408(a), however, the Secretary must determine that the exemption is administratively feasible, in the interest of the plan and its participants and beneficiaries, and protects the rights of participants and beneficiaries. Description: EBSA exercises delegated authority under ERISA to protect workers' pensions and group health benefits and has issued regulations under Part 7, codified at 29 CFR 2590.701-1 et seq., to effectuate these rights and provide guidance to affected group health plans pertaining to a number of laws applicable to group health plans, including Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act of 1996 (HIPAA), the Newborns' and Mothers' Health Protection Act of 1996, the Mental Health Parity Act of 1996, and the Women's Health and Cancer Rights Act of 1998. In 2001, EBSA conducted a program to increase compliance with these laws, the Health Disclosure and Claims.

Issues: Fiscal Year 2001 Compliance Project (HDCI). EBSA is now planning to conduct a follow-up program to assess the effectiveness of its compliance assistance efforts that will involve the examination of a number and variety of group health plans that is sufficient to constitute a representative sample of existing plans from which EBSA can extrapolate compliance rates for group health plans in general. However, in order to make its assessment meaningful, EBSA must first identify ERISA-covered single-employer group health plans in two groups: (1) Plans sponsored by firms with 3-99 employees, and (2) plans sponsored by firms with 100 or more employees. EBSA intends to conduct a narrow-scope, one-time telephone survey of business firms in order to identify a representative sample of large and small group health plans sponsored by private-sector employers. The agency intends to ask each firm a limited number of questions designed to determine whether the firm sponsors a group health plan covered by Title I of ERISA and how many employees are covered under the plan.
