

Broadband Plan and the Broadband Map and their related impact studies and filing processes. The PII that will be collected are the street address of speed test and registry participants. Therefore, the Commission intends to do the following:

1) create a system of records to cover the PII that is being collected as part of these information collection requirements;

2) conduct a Privacy Impact Assessment (PIA) in accordance with OMB Memorandum M-03-22 to examine and evaluate the protections for handling the PII as part of this new information collection; and

3) publish the system of records notice (SORN) in the Federal Register as required by 5 U.S.C. 552a(e).

Nature and Extent of Confidentiality: No personally identifiable information (PII) will be shared outside the FCC. However, the Commission will retain the street address information. As noted in Question 1 of the Supporting Statement, which will be submitted to the OMB, the FCC is committed to protecting the PII that is being collected, stored, maintained, and used as part of the Broadband Plan and the Broadband Map and the related impact studies and filing processes. The FCC intends to create a system of records, to perform a Privacy Act Impact analysis, and to publish the System of Records Notice (SORN) in the Federal Register.

The information collected through the voluntary Registry and speed tests, with the exception of any personally identifiable information, may be shared with public-private partnerships and with the Telecommunications Program of the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) Rural Development Agency. This sharing regime is described in the Commission's Broadband Data Gathering Order of 2008 (FCC 08-89).

Need and Uses: The purpose of this collection is to enable citizens to voluntarily report the unavailability of broadband service at the household street address level and to test the speed and quality of their broadband service. This collection will provide the Commission with unique data on household availability of broadband and on relative broadband speeds.

The FCC's 2008 Broadband Data Gathering Order instructs the Commission to "design and implement a voluntary system that households may use to report unavailability and speed of broadband Internet access service at their premises."

The Commission sought emergency OMB approval for this new collection on October 20, 2009. The Commission received OMB approval for the emergency request on October 27, 2009. Emergency approvals are valid for six months only. Therefore, the Commission is seeking an extension of this collection (no change in reporting and/or third party disclosure requirements) in order to obtain the full three year clearance from the OMB.

The Commission will use the information collected to help determine the extent of broadband build-out and availability. The street address level collection will provide the Commission with additional data to help create an accurate National Broadband Map. The speed test and quality of service data will provide the Commission with an additional informational resource to consider that will be relevant to the National Broadband Plan and other proceedings.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

OMB Control No: 3060-1128.

Title: National Broadband Plan Survey of Consumers.

Form No.: N/A.

Type of Review: Extension of a currently approved collection.

Respondents: Individuals or households; business or other for-profit.

Number of Respondents: 5,100 respondents; 5,100 responses.

Estimated Time Per Response: .33 hours.

Frequency of Response: On occasion reporting requirement.

Obligation to Respond: Voluntary. Statutory authority for this collection of information is contained in the Broadband Data Improvement Act of 2008, Pub. L. No. 110-385 and the American Reinvestment and Recovery Act of 2009, Pub. L. No. 111–5.

Total Annual Burden: 1,683 hours.

Privacy Act Impact Assessment: No personally identified information will be transmitted to the Commission from the survey contractor as a matter of vendor policy.

Nature and Extent of Confidentiality: There is no need for confidentiality.

Need and Uses: The Broadband Data Improvement Act of 2008, Pub. L. No. 110–385, Stat 4096 § 103(c)(1) directs the Commission to collect the information on the types of technology used to provide broadband to consumers, the price of such services, actual data transmission speeds, and the reasons for non-adoption of broadband service.

The Commission requested emergency OMB approval in October for this new information collection. The Commission received OMB approval on October 19, 2009. The Commission is now requesting an extension (no change in the reporting requirement) in order to obtain the full three year clearance from the OMB.

This collection of information will be accomplished through a national telephone survey of 5,000 consumers and face-to-face workshops with approximately 100 individuals throughout the United States. Consistent with one of the key reasons for this information collection, workshop participants will be non-adopters of broadband. The reason for holding these workshops is to elicit more in-depth responses from individuals to the questions being asked of non-adopters in the telephone survey. The workshops will add a narrative dimension to the reasons for non-adoption to the statistical information being collected in the telephone survey.

The Commission's Office of Strategic Planning (OSP) will use the information collected under this survey to help determine the extent of broadband Internet adoption, and use the data to inform policy recommendations under the National Broadband Plan. Information on consumers without broadband Internet at home will be used to carefully identify the nature and extent of the problem and used to develop policy recommendations through the National Broadband Plan which is due to congress by February 17, 2010.
