Proposed Project: HIV Clinician Workforce Study (OMB No. 0915-NEW)

HRSA's HIV/AIDS Bureau (HAB) is planning to conduct a 24-month HIV clinician workforce study to provide HRSA and other state and federal agencies with national and state-level estimates of the number of primary care clinicians currently providing medical care to people living with HIV or AIDS in the United States, as well as projections of the magnitude of the expected shortage or surplus of HIV-related primary care clinicians through 2015.

The study will focus on the supply and demand of health professionals who independently manage patients with HIV/AIDS. The study will have two main components:

- Design and implementation of a forecasting model to estimate and project the supply of and demand for HIV clinicians at the national and regional levels; and
- Implementation of two surveys to collect the information needed to develop HIV-specific input parameters for the forecasting model, as well as to help address other research questions of the study.

HRSA is requesting OMB approval to conduct a HIV clinician survey and a HIV practice survey. The HIV clinician survey will focus on the individual provider of care and will include questions related to:

- The clinician's age, gender, medical profession, and medical specialty;
- The number of hours spent in direct patient care;
- The size and characteristics of HIV patient load;
- The primary practice characteristics and patient management strategies; and
- The plans to increase or decrease number of hours spent in direct patient care, as well as plans for retirement.

The HIV practice survey will also focus on the practice administrator and will include questions related to type and size of clinic, clinic specialty and affiliation, number and acuity of patients, number and composition of staff, type of staffing model and patient management strategies, meaningful use of electronic medical record systems, as well as appointment scheduling practices and policies. HRSA also plans to conduct web/paper surveys with computer-assisted telephone interviewing follow-up.

HRSA will use claims data, supplemented with a list of members of HIV medical societies, attendees at the 2010 HIV clinical conference, and participants in regional AIDS Education and Training Center-sponsored training sessions, to identify the frame of clinicians (physicians and non-physician clinicians) in all 50 states and the District of Columbia who provide a significant amount of medical care to patients with HIV or AIDS, based on diagnostic, procedural, and drug codes associated with the claims. By using a national probability sampling strategy, the results of the clinician survey can be used to generate national and regional estimates of HIV clinician supply.

HRSA will use quantitative and qualitative methods to document and quantify the extent of the HIV clinician workforce surplus or shortage, predict the future requirements for and supply of HIV clinicians, and identify best practice models and strategies for expanding the capacity of HIV practices and providers to meet the growing demand for care.

The ultimate goal of the study will be to develop proposed action steps that HRSA and other federal and state agencies can use to enhance the capacity of the HIV clinician workforce to achieve the access targets set forth in the 2010 White House Office of HIV/AIDS Policy's National HIV/AIDS Strategy and Implementation Plan.

The annual estimate of burden of the two surveys is as follows:

Instrument	Number of respondents	Responses per respondent	Total responses	Hours per response	Total burden hours
HIV Clinician Survey	4,000	1	4,000	0.33	1,320
HIV Practice Survey	500	1	500	0.50	250
Total	4,500	4,500	1,570

Place: Webinar format.

Status: The meeting will be open to the public.

Purpose: The Council on Graduate Medical Education (COGME) was authorized by Congress in 1986 to provide an ongoing assessment of physician workforce trends, training issues, and financing policies, and to recommend appropriate Federal and private sector efforts to address identified needs. The legislation calls for COGME to advise and make recommendations to the Secretary of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS), the Senate Committee on Health, Education, Labor and Pensions, and the House of Representatives Committee on Energy and Commerce. The topic of discussion for this meeting is graduate medical education (GME) financing in a time of fiscal restraint.

Agenda: The meeting on Tuesday, June 14 will begin with opening remarks from the Chair of COGME and welcoming comments from senior management of the Health Resources and Services Administration. COGME will hear presentations by speakers on various aspects of the topic of GME financing in a time of reduced financial resources. The presentations will be followed by an opportunity for members to ask questions and make comment.

Discussion will focus on the development of recommendations for a report to the Secretary and Congress. The meeting on Tuesday, June 14 will also include an election to fill the now vacant position of Vice Chair. Additional presentations will be held on Wednesday, June 15, followed by the development of plans for the completion of a COGME report on GME financing. The public will have an opportunity to provide oral comments at the end of each day's agenda. Agenda items are subject to change as priorities dictate.
