Agency Forms Undergoing Paperwork Reduction Act Review

The Agency for Toxic Substances and Disease Registry (ATSDR) publishes a list of information collection requests under review by the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) in compliance with the Paperwork Reduction Act (44 U.S.C. Chapter 35). To request a copy of these requests, call (404) 639–7570 or send an email to omb@cdc.gov. Send written comments to CDC Desk Officer, Office of Management and Budget, Washington, DC 20503 or by fax to (202) 395–5806. Written comments should be received within 30 days of this notice.

Proposed Project

Generic Clearance of ATSDR Exposure Investigations (EI) [OMB Control No: 0923–0040, Expiration Date 11/30/2012]—Reinstatement with Change—Agency for Toxic Substances and Disease Registry (ATSDR).

Background and Brief Description

The Agency for Toxic Substances and Disease Registry (ATSDR) requests a change to a three-year “generic clearance”. The title has changed since publication of the 60-day Federal Register Notice to read—Generic Clearance of ATSDR Exposure Investigations (EI). The goals remain the same but ATSDR believes the change will allow the Agency to carry out its public health activities in a more timely and efficient manner. The benefits to using the EI Generic Clearance include submission of a standardized OMB review package for each EI Generic Information Collection (GenIC).

The ATSDR Division of Community Health and Investigation (DCHI) conducts public health assessments (PHAs) at sites when requested by the U.S. EPA, states, organizations, or individual petitioners. The purpose of the agency’s PHA process is to find out whether people have been, are being, or may be exposed to hazardous substances and, if so whether that exposure is harmful, or potentially harmful, and should therefore be stopped or reduced. The process also serves as a mechanism through which the agency responds to specific community health concerns related to hazardous waste sites.

Exposure assessment is the hallmark of the PHA process. ATSDR scientists review environmental data to see how much contamination is at a site, where it is, and how people might come into contact with it. Generally, ATSDR does not collect its own environmental sampling data but reviews information provided by federal and state government agencies and/or their contractors, potentially responsible parties, and the public. When adequate environmental or exposure information does not exist to assess human exposures and possible related health effects, ATSDR will indicate what further environmental sampling may be needed and may collect environmental and biological samples, when appropriate.

Therefore, as part of the PHA process, the DCHI Science Support Branch (SSB) uses EIs to fill data gaps that are essential for evaluating whether communities are exposed to contaminants and whether a health hazard is present. The EI team conducts point of human-contact sampling focused on geographic areas where exposures are expected to be high. EIs may include environmental (ambient air, personal air, indoor air, dust, soil, sediment, biota, ground water, tap water and surface water sampling) or biological sampling (blood and urine sampling), or both. Most EIs sampling events are completed over a period of days to months and are a one-time occurrence.

An EI aims to identify the most highly exposed individuals and measure their exposure. The results of the investigation are site-specific and apply only to the participants from the site. An EI is not considered a health study. The participants’ results are not intended to be generalized to other populations and other communities. No participants from external comparison groups are included in the data collection. As a public service, EIs provide individual exposure information back to the participants. EIs are also used as the basis to implement appropriate public health actions that reduce exposure to communities.

Information obtained from the participants assists the team in determining if exposure has occurred or is occurring. For each EI, a data collection system will include all of the measurements and procedures that are proposed to address data gaps in biological and environmental sampling.

ATSDR collects contact information (e.g., name, address, phone number) to provide the participant with their individual results. General information, which includes height, weight, age, race, gender, etc., is also collected primarily in biological investigations to assist with results interpretation. Some of this information is investigation-specific; not all of these data are collected for every investigation.

ATSDR also collects information on other possible confounding sources of chemical(s) exposure such as medicines taken, food eaten, hobbies, jobs, etc. In addition, ATSDR asks questions on recreational or occupational activities that could increase a participant’s
