

(a.k.a. the Kenova Station or the Kenova plant), by sale to MarkWest Hydrocarbon Partners, Ltd. (MarkWest), all as more fully set forth in the application, which is on file with the Commission and open to public inspection.

In a related proceeding, in Docket No. CP96-121-000, MarkWest filed a petition with the Commission for a declaratory order disclaiming jurisdiction over the gas processing facilities that MarkWest is constructing on land purchased from Columbia at the Kenova plant site.

The Kenova plant is located in Wayne County, West Virginia. It was designed and built in 1957-1958, and was designed to remove essentially all of the propane and heavier hydrocarbons (i.e., natural gas liquids, or NGL) and water vapor from the gas stream entering Columbia's transmission system. The gas processed at the Kenova plant originates as production from fields in southern West Virginia and eastern Kentucky. Since it began operation in 1958, the NGL removed from this gas stream at the Kenova plant is recovered as one mixed liquid and is transported via a pipeline owned by MarkWest to Siloam, Kentucky, for further separation, purification, and sale of the NGL by MarkWest.

Columbia states that the Kenova plant needs to be replaced, because of its age and deteriorating condition, with more modern and efficient gas processing facilities. Columbia adds that it believes the public interest can best be served through its abandonment of the existing Kenova plant, thereby allowing a non-jurisdictional company to continue the processing service now being provided. Columbia notes that MarkWest has purchased the existing facilities at the Kenova site, that those facilities are being removed, and that MarkWest is constructing and will operate new gas processing facilities at the Kenova site, thereby allowing MarkWest to remove certain hydrocarbons from the natural gas being transported on Columbia's pipeline system.

To Columbia's knowledge, no certificate exists for the Kenova plant, due to the Commission's historical view that its jurisdiction generally does not encompass processing plants. However, to the extent deemed necessary by the Commission, Columbia requests authorization to abandon the existing Kenova plant, by sale to MarkWest.
