UNITED STATES AIR FORCE

How Systems of Records are Arranged

In the Air Force, records are grouped by subject series. Each series has records about a specific activity or function to which a subject title and number is given. Systems of records are grouped in the same way. For example, a system of records on personnel security clearances may be found in 'Security - 31,' and one about psychiatry in 'Medical Service -44.' These numbers are part of the system identification which precede the notices. They look like this: F031 AF SP A or F044 AFSG A. The letter 'F' means Air Force. The first three digits (031 and 044) show that the records pertain to Security and the Medical Service respectively. The letters that follow indicate to whom the system applies and/or the Office of Primary Responsibility (OPR). For example, in system F031 AF SP A, AF indicates that this is an Air Force-wide system, with SP denoting Security Police as the OPR. The last alpha designation is for internal management control. In the records system F044 AFSG A, (without a space between the AF and SG) indicates this is a Surgeon General System and applies to the office of the Surgeon General only.

Using the Index Guide

The systems of records maintained by the Air Force are contained within the subject series that are listed below.

This list identifies each series in the order in which it appears in this issuance. Use the list to identify subject areas of interest. Having done so, use the series number (for example 031 for Security) to locate the systems of records grouping in which you are interested.
