Notice of Termination of New Shipper Antidumping Duty Administrative Review: Polyvinyl Alcohol From Taiwan

AGENCY: Import Administration, International Trade Administration, Department of Commerce.

EFFECTIVE DATE: October 22, 1997.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Everett Kelly or Brian Smith, Import Administration, International Trade Administration, U.S. Department of Commerce, 14th Street and Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20230; telephone: (202) 482-4194 or (202) 482-1766, respectively.

The Applicable Statute

Unless otherwise indicated, all citations to the Tariff Act of 1930, as amended (the Act), are references to the provisions effective January 1, 1995, the effective date of the amendments made to the Act by the Uruguay Round Agreements Act (URAA). In addition, unless otherwise indicated, all references to the Department's regulations are to those codified at 19 CFR part 353, as they existed on April 1, 1996.

Background

On December 18, 1996, the Department published in the Federal Register notice the initiation of a new shipper administrative review of the antidumping duty order on polyvinyl alcohol from Taiwan covering the exporter Perry Chemical Corporation ("Perry") and the period May 1, 1996, through October 31, 1996 (61 FR 68237, December 28, 1996).

Under Section 751(a)(2)(B)(i) of the Act, the Department will conduct an administrative review to establish an individual weighted average dumping margin if the Department receives a request from an exporter or producer that establishes (1) it did not export the merchandise that was the subject of the antidumping duty order to the United States during the period of investigation and (2) it is not affiliated within the meaning of section 771(33), any exporter or producer who exported the merchandise to the United States during that period of investigation.

In the less than fair value (LTFV) investigation, the Department investigated the sales of Chang Chun Petrochemicals, Ltd. (Chang Chun), the only exporter of PVA from Taiwan during the period of investigation, including sales to Perry, a U.S. importer. The record indicates that Perry has had a longstanding business relationship as an importer of PVA produced by Chang Chun and imported the subject merchandise produced and exported by Chang Chun during the period of the LTFV investigation. The Department found Chang Chun to be dumping at a rate of 19.21 percent during the LTFV investigation. In this review, the business relationship remains essentially unchanged. As shown by proprietary information on the record in this review, Perry continues to be the importer and Chang Chun continues to undertake the entire production of PVA.

For the sales in question in this review, Perry states that in addition to being the importer, it is now also the "manufacturer/exporter" of the subject merchandise, and that as a new exporter, it is entitled to a new shipper rate. Perry indicates that to produce the subject merchandise, Perry purchased the primary input of PVA, vinyl acetate monomer (VAM) from a Taiwan producer of VAM through an unaffiliated U.S. trading company. Perry contracted with Chang Chun to produce PVA utilizing Perry's VAM under a tolling arrangement. Perry then sold the PVA to unaffiliated customers in the United States and Canada during the period of review (POR).

In most past cases involving tolling arrangements the Department considered the manufacturer of the product exported to the United States to be the processor or toller, and not the party which controlled the production process, set the prices of the finished product in all markets, and held title to both the inputs and the subject merchandise (see, e.g., Final Determination of Sales at Less Than Fair Value: Certain Small Diameter Welded Carbon Steel Pipes and Tubes from the Philippines, 51 FR 33099, September 18, 1986).

Within the last few years, the Department has reconsidered its position of deeming the toller the manufacturer. A toller has no control over the price charged to U.S. and domestic buyers of the finished product, nor does a toller set the price in either market. Moreover, because the Department only considered the price or cost of the tolling in making comparisons between U.S. prices and prices of sales of the foreign like product, the Department did not capture all of the costs of manufacturing the subject merchandise, e.g., cost of inputs, as required by the statute section 773. Therefore, this approach did not allow for analysis of price comparisons between the finished products.

To resolve this situation, the Department revised its tolling practice. Rather than treat the toller as the producer, the Department now will treat the party who keeps title to the inputs and the finished product, controls the entire production process, and sets the price of the finished product in each market as the producer and, hence, the proper respondent (see Discussion Memorandum: A Proposed Alternative to Current Tolling Methodology in the Current Antidumping (AD) Reviews of Carbon Steel Flat Products, Memorandum from Joseph A. Spetrini, Deputy Assistant Secretary for Compliance, to Susan G. Esserman, Assistant Secretary for Import Administration, dated December 12, 1994).

This approach is also reflected in the Department's preamble to its new regulations (Antidumping Duties; Countervailing Duties; Final Rule, 62 FR 27295 (May 19, 1997)). Under section 351.401(h) of the new regulations, which, although not legally in effect for this new shipper review, are, at the time of this request for review, an expression of the Department's practice, the Department will not consider a toller or subcontractor to be a manufacturer or producer where the toller or subcontractor does not acquire ownership of the finished product and does not control the relevant sale of the subject merchandise and the foreign like product. See also Antidumping Duties; Countervailing Duties; Final Rule, 62 FR 27296, 27411 (legally effective only for segments of the proceeding initiated based on requests filed after June 18,
