Hazardous Waste Land Disposal Restrictions: Notice of Public Meeting

AGENCY: Environmental Protection Agency.

ACTION: Notice.

SUMMARY: The Environmental Protection Agency's (EPA's) Office of Solid Waste will hold a public roundtable discussion on the Agency's efforts to evaluate important aspects of and potentially improve the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act (RCRA) Land Disposal Restrictions (LDR) Program. The purpose of the roundtable is to enable individuals who have substantial experience in implementing the LDR Program to offer their own evaluations and suggestions on possible improvements to the program. EPA's overall goal in the LDR reinvention project is to examine the best way to ensure the program is environmentally protective, less expensive, more efficient and flexible, clearer to the public, and more enforceable. The public is welcome to observe the discussions among participants and will be afforded some opportunities to express their views. However, this meeting is not intended to be a full public hearing.

DATES: The meeting will be held on July 1 and 2, 1998, from 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. each day.

ADDRESSES: The meeting will be held at the Holiday Inn Arlington at Ballston, 4610 N. Fairfax Drive, Arlington, VA 22203.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: For registration matters, contact Ms. Lisa Enderle of SAIC at (703) 645-6950. For technical questions regarding the LDRs, contact Rhonda Minnick of EPA's Office of Solid Waste at (703) 308-8771; e-mail: minnick.rhonda@epamail.epa.gov. For general information on the LDRs, contact EPA's RCRA Hotline at (800) 824-9346 or TDD (800) 553-7672 (hearing impaired). In the Washington, D.C. metropolitan area, call (703) 412-9810 or TDD (703) 412-3323.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Accommodations

Guest rooms may be reserved by calling the Holiday Inn Arlington at Ballston directly at (703) 243-9800 by June 8, 1998. Please reference the "LDR Roundtable" to receive the special government room rate.

Registration

Only registered participants will be eligible to take part in the roundtable discussions (subject to the final agenda and meeting structure). Depending on the number of persons seeking to be full discussion participants, EPA may need to tailor the meeting structure and limit the number of full participants to 75 individuals to insure that useful results are obtained in the time available. Details will be developed and communicated on meeting structure as early as possible. To register as an observer or to register as a full participant (requested), please download a registration form via the Internet from the EPA web site at <http://www.epa.gov/epaoswer/hazwaste/ldr/register.htm>. To receive a registration form via fax and/or for additional meeting and logistical information please contact Ms. Lisa Enderle of SAIC at (703) 645-6950. The registration deadline is June 19, 1998.

Background

In the 1984 Hazardous and Solid Waste Amendments to RCRA, Congress prohibited the land disposal of hazardous wastes unless the wastes meet treatment standards established by EPA. The statute requires that these treatment standards substantially diminish the toxicity or mobility of hazardous wastes so that short- and long-term threats to human health and the environment are minimized. RCRA section 3004(m). In response, EPA has developed a series of rulemakings under the LDR Program setting forth standards for treatment of hazardous wastes destined for land disposal.

Once a hazardous waste is prohibited, the statute provides only two options for legal land disposal: meet the treatment standard for the waste prior to land disposal or dispose of the waste in a land disposal unit that has been found to satisfy the statutory "no migration" test. A no migration unit is one from which there will be no migration of hazardous constituents for as long as the waste remains hazardous. RCRA sections 3004(d), (e), (f) and (g)(5).

To date, the Agency has implemented section 3004(m) of RCRA by establishing treatment standards for chemical constituents in hazardous wastes based upon the performance of the best demonstrated available technology (BDAT) to treat the waste. EPA may establish treatment standards as specified technologies, as constituent concentration levels in treatment residuals, or both. When treatment standards are set as levels, the regulated community may use any technology not otherwise prohibited (such as impermissible dilution) to treat the waste.

On January 13 and 14, 1993, EPA held a roundtable discussion on the LDR Program with stakeholders from hazardous waste generators, treaters, recyclers and disposers; public interest groups; State environmental agencies; EPA regional offices; and other federal agencies. The purpose of the 1993 roundtable was for EPA to hear suggestions on improvements to the LDR Program from people who implement it. As a result of those suggestions, EPA made several significant changes to the LDRs, including consolidation of the three treatment standard tables into one table, simplification of notification requirements, and promulgation of universal treatment standards. See 59 FR 47982, 48004 (Sept. 19, 1994) (final LDR Phase II rule); 62 FR 25998, 26004 (May 12, 1997) (final Phase IV "mini-rule").

EPA believes that, in general, the LDR Program is working and is an impetus for source reduction and proper waste treatment. Nonetheless, EPA's efforts to improve the LDR Program are on-going. Specifically, as part of its LDR Reinvention Project, EPA has undertaken a multi-faceted evaluation of the LDR Program to determine what is and is not working well in the program. These Reinvention activities include interviews of hazardous waste management experts, visits to different hazardous waste treatment facilities, and analysis of RCRA Hotline and LDR staff inquiries. EPA believes it would be valuable to build upon the information obtained from these activities by holding a second roundtable. The Agency anticipates that the roundtable will enable EPA to gather additional stakeholder suggestions and to target areas of the LDR Program for specific improvements.

As currently planned, the roundtable will begin with a plenary session to obtain general comments from the attendees on the benefits and burdens of the LDRs. The meeting will then proceed with a number of breakout sessions involving discussion among designated participants in smaller groups, each of which will focus on a subset of LDR issues.
