

to fish each day after the closure (August 9, 1998) provided they report swordfish landings from the previous evening's driftnet set. The EFP would not be valid each day until the landings report was received by NMFS. Another condition of the EFP would be that, upon notice, all driftnet vessels must cease fishing and return to port for offloading of their catch.

It is expected that fewer than 12 vessels will apply for the EFPs. The proposed quota monitoring program involves activities (fishing after a closure) otherwise prohibited by Atlantic swordfish regulations. The applicants require daily authorization to fish for, and to possess, Atlantic swordfish with a driftnet outside the Federal commercial fishing season.

Based on 12 potential applicants, NMFS finds that this program warrants further consideration. A final decision on issuance of EFPs will depend on the submission of all required information, NMFS' review of public comments received on this notice, and on any consultations with any appropriate Regional Fishery Management Councils, states, or Federal agencies.
