

previous assessments (i.e., noticeability). The threshold for Zone Two will be set at 8 decibels below the average natural ambient A-weighted sound levels (i.e., audibility). The noise thresholds will be used in noise modeling for impact assessment to determine the onset of impact to natural quiet at GCNP.

Conclusion

As discussed above, the National Park Service has carefully considered and responded to the comments received on the Public Notice published in the Federal Register on January 26, 1999 (64 FR 3969–3972), concerning a change in the noise impact assessment methodology for air tour operations over Grand Canyon National Park. Based on this consideration, and the additional data and experience explained above which led to the Public Notice, the NPS decision is to adopt the proposed noise impact assessment methodology, and to request the FAA to use it for current rulemaking related to GCNP air tour overflight management and mitigation.

Future application of these refinements of the impact assessment methodology in FAA rulemaking measures are likely to make more challenging the agencies' efforts to achieve the substantial restoration of natural quiet. However, the use of the two noise thresholds and two geographic zones will better achieve the preservation of the GCNP resources and visitor experiences the NPS is charged to protect, and be more in line with the definition of substantial restoration of natural quiet.

Robert Stanton,
Director.
