Amateur Service Rules

AGENCY: Federal Communications Commission.

ACTION: Final rule; petition for reconsideration.

SUMMARY: This document denies in part and grants in part various petitions for reconsideration of the Report and Order in this proceeding. It also revises part 13 of the rules to ensure the telegraphy requirements for commercial radio operator licenses remain unchanged and it makes minor editorial changes to certain part 97 rules. This action will allow current Amateur Radio Service licensees to contribute more to the advancement of the radio art; reduce the administrative costs that the Commission incurs in regulating this service and streamline our licensing processes; and promote efficient use of spectrum allocated to the Amateur Radio Service.

DATES: Effective July 1, 2001.

Telecommunications Bureau, (202) 418-0680, TTY (202) 418-7233.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: This is a summary of the Commission's Memorandum Opinion and Order, WT Docket No. 98-143, FCC 99-412, adopted March 27, 2001, and released April 6, 2001. The complete text of this document is available for inspection and copying during normal business hours in the FCC's Reference Information Center, 445 12th Street SW., Room CY-A257, Washington, DC. The complete text of this document may also be obtained from the Commission's copy contractor, International Transcription Services, Inc., 1231 20th St., NW., Washington, DC 20036, telephone (202) 857-3800. Alternative formats (computer diskette, large print, audio cassette, and Braille) are available to persons with disabilities by contacting Martha Contee at (202) 418-0620 (voice) or (202) 418-2555 (TTY), or at mcontee@fcc.gov. Summary of Memorandum Opinion and Order

1. In the Notice of Proposed Rule Making (NPRM) (63 FR 49059, September 14, 1998) in WT Docket No. 98-143, the Commission initiated the instant proceeding to examine the Amateur Radio Service rules in an effort to streamline its licensing processes and eliminate unnecessary and duplicative rules.

2. By its Report and Order, (65 FR 6548, February 10, 2000) the Commission substantially revised the amateur service license structure by streamlining our licensing processes and eliminating unnecessary and duplicative rules. This Memorandum Opinion and Order addresses pending petitions for reconsideration of the Report and Order. Because the petitioners' suggested clarifications generally already were considered and rejected, or because they are beyond the scope of the proceeding, the Commission has not modified any part 97 provisions based on the petitions. The Commission granted the request of petitioners that the amateur service database distinguish between Technician and Technician Plus Class licensees, however, to the extent that these database changes already have been implemented. Additionally, on its own motion, the Commission adopted changes to its part 13 rules to ensure the telegraphy requirements for commercial radio operator licenses remain unchanged and the Commission made minor editorial changes to certain part 97 rules.

3. The Regulatory Flexibility Act (RFA) requires that an agency prepare a regulatory flexibility analysis for notice-and-comment rulemaking proceedings, unless the agency certifies that "the rule will not, if promulgated, have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities." 5 U.S.C. 605(b). In the NPRM, the Commission certified that the proposed rule amendments, if promulgated, would not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small business entities, as defined in section 601(3) of the RFA because the rule amendments do not apply to small business entities. Rather, these rules apply to individuals who are interested in radio technique solely with a personal aim and without pecuniary interest. No comments were received concerning this certification. The Commission now affirms this certification with respect to the rules adopted in this Memorandum Opinion and Order. Accordingly, because small business entities, as defined in section 601(3) of the RFA, are not eligible to make an application for an amateur service license or be a licensee in the amateur service, the Commission certifies, pursuant to section 605(b) of the RFA, that the rules adopted herein will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities, as defined in the RFA.

An Inquiry Into the Commission's Policies and Rules Regarding AM Radio Service Directional Antenna Performance Verification

AGENCY: Federal Communications Commission.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: In this proceeding the Commission relaxes the technical requirements for directional AM stations. The new rules reduce the number of measurements required as part of directional AM license applications and eliminate outdated operating requirements. The changes, consistent with the Commission's streamlining initiatives, reduce the regulatory burden upon directional AM stations to the extent possible while maintaining the integrity of the service.

DATES: Effective May 25, 2001.

ADDRESSES: Secretary, Federal Communications Commission, 445 12th Street, SW., Washington, DC 20554, <http://www.fcc.gov>.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Peter H. Doyle, Audio Services Division, Mass Media Bureau (202) 418–2700.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: This is a summary of the Commission's Report and Order in MM. Docket No. 93–177, adopted February 14, 2001, and released March 7, 2001. The new rules adopted here were proposed in an earlier Notice of Proposed Rule Making (NPRM) in this proceeding [See 64 FR 40539, July 27, 1999]. The final rules incorporate comments received in response to the NPRM. The complete text of this Report and Order is available for inspection and copying during normal business hours in the FCC Reference Center (Room CY–A257), 445 12th Street, SW., Washington, DC 20554, and may also be purchased from the Commission's copy contractor, International Transcription Service, (202) 857–3800, 1231 20th Street, NW., Washington, DC 20036. Synopsis of Report and Order

1. Introduction

This Report and Order relaxes the Commission's technical rules for AM broadcasters using directional antennas. Directional AM stations use antennas which suppress radiated field in some directions and enhance it in others. In order to control interference between stations and assure adequate community coverage, directional AM stations must undergo extensive "proofs of performance" to demonstrate that the antenna system operates as authorized. This Report and Order substantially reduces the number of measurements required in a proof of performance, and, consequently, reduces the cost borne by the licensee. The Report and Order also eliminates some equipment and measurement requirements for directional AM stations, and eliminates the designation of some directional AM stations as "critical arrays," a classification that imposed additional operating restrictions and expenses upon some licensees.

2. Proof of Performance Requirements

An antenna proof of performance establishes whether the radiation pattern of an AM station is in compliance with the station's authorization. An AM station must perform a full proof to verify the pattern shape when a new directional antenna system is authorized. Partial proofs, which require fewer measurements, are occasionally necessary to show that an array continues to operate properly. For both full and partial proofs, the Commission reduced the required number of radials and the number of measurements per radial.
