

(1) If it appears on the basis of facts not previously considered that the determination complained of was erroneous;

(2) if it appears that the determination complained of was based on a mistake in the determination of facts not previously considered; or

(3) if in the opinion of the Certifying Officer, a misinterpretation of facts or of the law justified reconsideration of the decision.

The TAA petition, filed on behalf of workers at Colonial Tanning Corporation, Gloversville, New York engaged in the production of tanned leather, was denied because the "contributed importantly" group eligibility requirement of Section 222 of the Trade Act of 1974, as amended, was not met. The "contributed importantly" test is generally demonstrated through a survey of the workers' firm's customers. The Department conducted a survey of the subject firm's major customers regarding their purchases of competitive products in 2001 through April of 2003. The respondents reported no increased imports. The subject firm shifted production to China, but did not import tanned deerskins during the relevant period.

The union alleges that the subject firm is affiliated with two other companies and that these two companies imported tanned leather from foreign sources.

In the original investigation, one of the two companies noted by the union above was listed as a major declining customer; their survey response indicated no imports. In regard to the second company named by the union, a company official was contacted. In regard to this second company, it was revealed that one of the owners of the subject firm also owned the rights to the company name of the second company. It was also revealed that the total sales volume of this affiliated company was negligible relative to the sales volume at the subject firm, and thus any imports that occurred at the second company could not contribute importantly to layoffs at the subject firm.

The union also alleged that subject firm workers should be eligible because workers at a "direct competitor" (Johnstown Leather, TA-W-51,104) were certified eligible for trade adjustment assistance.

A review of the abovementioned case for workers at Johnstown Leather revealed that these workers were certified eligible for trade adjustment assistance based on increased customer imports. However, as Colonial Tanning Corporation has a different major declining customer base, this certification has no bearing on the eligibility of subject firm workers for TAA.

Conclusion

After review of the application and investigative findings, I conclude that there has been no error or misinterpretation of the law or of the facts which would justify reconsideration of the Department of Labor's prior decision. Accordingly, the application is denied.

Divine Brothers Company, Utica, NY, Notice of Negative Determination Regarding Application for Reconsideration

By application of June 1, 2003, the Union of Needletrades, Industrial & Textiles Employees, Local 653-T requested administrative reconsideration of the Department's negative determination regarding eligibility for workers and former workers of the subject firm to apply for Trade Adjustment Assistance (TAA). The denial notice was signed on May 6, 2003 and published in the Federal Register on May 19, 2003 (68 FR 27107).

Pursuant to 29 CFR 90.18(c) reconsideration may be granted under the following circumstances:

(1) If it appears on the basis of facts not previously considered that the determination complained of was erroneous;

(2) if it appears that the determination complained of was based on a mistake in the determination of facts not previously considered; or

(3) if in the opinion of the Certifying Officer, a mis-interpretation of facts or of the law justified reconsideration of the decision.

The TAA petition, filed on behalf of workers at Divine Brothers Company, Inc., Utica, New York engaged in the production of industrial metal finishing products and supplies, was denied because criterion (2) was not met. Sales of industrial metal finishing products and supplies increased in 2002 compared to 2001 and remained relatively stable in January-March 2003 compared to the same period in 2002.

In the request for reconsideration, the union alleged that the closure of the Caster and Wheel Division (Truck Wheel) contributed to layoffs.

A company official stated that the company had made a decision to close the abovementioned division and that it closed in May of 2002. However, coinciding with the decline and ultimate closure of this division, other product lines produced by the company increased, which would explain the stable sales figures in the relevant period.

The union official also supplied information concerning allegations of layoffs of this division and bumping rights of employees under union agreements.

The petitioning workers were denied because sales and production did not decline in the relevant period, and workers are not separately identifiable, thus the information is irrelevant to a reconsideration of the original determination.

Conclusion

After review of the application and investigative findings, I conclude that there has been no error or misinterpretation of the law or of the facts which would justify reconsideration of the Department of Labor's prior decision. Accordingly, the application is denied.

Georgia-Pacific Corporation, Operating as James River Paper Co., Inc., Consumer Products Division, Old Town, ME; Notice of Negative Determination Regarding Application for Reconsideration

By application of June 24, 2003, a company official requested administrative reconsideration of the Department's negative determination regarding eligibility for workers and former workers of the subject firm to apply for Trade Adjustment Assistance (TAA). The denial notice was signed on May 16, 2003 and published in the Federal Register on June 3, 2003 (68 FR 33195).

Pursuant to 29 CFR 90.18(c) reconsideration may be granted under the following circumstances:

(1) If it appears on the basis of facts not previously considered that the determination complained of was erroneous;

(2) If it appears that the determination complained of was based on a mistake in the determination of facts not previously considered; or

(3) If in the opinion of the Certifying Officer, a mis-interpretation of facts or of the law justified reconsideration of the decision.

The TAA petition, filed on behalf of workers at Georgia-Pacific Corporation, operating as James River Paper Co., Inc., Old Town, Maine engaged in the production of toilet tissue, towels, napkin paper and converted case products, was denied because the "contributed importantly" group eligibility requirement of Section 222 of the Trade Act of 1974 was not met. The subject firm did not increase its reliance on imports of toilet tissue, towels, napkin paper and converted case products during the relevant period, nor did it shift production to a foreign source. Further, division-wide sales increased during the relevant period.

The company official alleges that, in order to remain competitive, the company was forced to upgrade the raw materials used to make its paper products, and that these raw materials are now obtained from foreign sources. The official further clarifies that, because the Old Town facility was unable to efficiently process this foreign fiber source, the company shifted production to another domestic facility with better capabilities for processing this imported raw material.

The foreign sourcing of raw materials is not a factor in determining the import impact of the finished product. In assessing import impact in connection with petitioning worker eligibility for TAA, the Department considers data regarding imports like or directly competitive with those produced at the subject firm.

Conclusion

After review of the application and investigative findings, I conclude that there has been no error or misinterpretation of the law or of the facts which would justify reconsideration of the Department of Labor's prior decision. Accordingly, the application is denied.

Motorola, Inc.; iDen Radio Support Center; Elgin, IL; Notice of Negative Determination Regarding Application for Reconsideration

By application of June 21, 2003, a petitioner requested administrative reconsideration of the Department's negative determination regarding eligibility for workers and former workers of the subject firm to apply for Trade Adjustment Assistance (TAA). The denial notice applicable to workers of Motorola, Inc., iDen Radio Support Center, Elgin, Illinois was signed on May 20, 2003, and published in the Federal Register on June 3, 2003 (68 FR 33195).

Pursuant to 29 CFR 90.18(c) reconsideration may be granted under the following circumstances:

(1) If it appears on the basis of facts not previously considered that the determination complained of was erroneous;

(2) If it appears that the determination complained of was based on a mistake in the determination of facts not previously considered; or

(3) If in the opinion of the Certifying Officer, a mis-interpretation of facts or of the law justified reconsideration of the decision.

The TAA petition was filed on behalf of workers at Motorola, Inc., iDen Radio Support Center, Elgin, Illinois engaged in activities related to the repair of iDEN cellular radios. The petition was denied because the petitioning workers did not produce an article within the meaning of Section 222 of the Act.

The petitioner questions why the repair work performed at the subject facility does not constitute production.

The Department of Labor, has consistently considered repair work a "service". Further, the North American Industrial Classification System (NAICS), is a standard used by the Department to categorize products and services. Both the 1997 and 2002 editions of the NAICS designate the repair of telephones and two-way radios as classified within a code that signifies services (specifically NAICS 811213).

Only in very limited instances are service workers certified for TAA, namely the worker separations must be caused by a reduced demand for their services from a parent or controlling firm or subdivision whose workers produce an article and who are currently under certification for TAA.

Conclusion

After review of the application and investigative findings, I conclude that there has been no error or misinterpretation of the law or of the facts which would justify reconsideration of the Department of Labor's prior decision. Accordingly, the application is denied.
