

Genome Research Institute; National Center for Research Resources; and National Center for Complementary and Alternative Medicine.

The purpose of the working meeting is to discuss the current status of drug research in neonates and pre-term infants. The meeting will focus on exploring gaps in existing knowledge in this field and in developing strategies to rectify the gaps that could be implemented by federal agencies and the scientific community.

Participants at the meeting will develop recommendations for potential research approaches for current and future pharmaceutical agents for use in newborns. The focus will be on issues related to: Trial design, ethics, pharmacokinetics, pharmacodynamics, efficacy and toxicity, drug formulations, drug prioritization, and surveillance of adverse events. Additional discussion will consider the assessment of long term outcomes and issues related to research in small subpopulations.

Attendance at the meeting will be limited. Persons interested in attending the meeting should submit a request containing the following information to <bestpharmaceuticals@mail.nih.gov>.
