

economically significant rule and would not create an environmental risk to health or risk to safety that may disproportionately affect children.

Indian Tribal Governments

This proposed rule would not have tribal implications under Executive Order 13175, Consultation and Coordination with Indian Tribal Governments, because it would not have a substantial direct effect on one or more Indian tribes, on the relationship between the Federal Government and Indian tribes, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities between the Federal Government and Indian tribes.

Energy Effects

We have analyzed this proposed rule under Executive Order 13211, Actions Concerning Regulations That Significantly Affect Energy Supply, Distribution, or Use. We have determined that it is not a "significant energy action" under that order because it is not a "significant regulatory action" under Executive Order 12866 and is not likely to have a significant adverse effect on the supply, distribution, or use of energy. The Administrator of the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs has not designated it as a significant energy action. Therefore, it does not require a Statement of Energy Effects under Executive Order 13211.

Technical Standards

The National Technology Transfer and Advancement Act (NTTAA) (15 U.S.C. 272 note) directs agencies to use voluntary consensus standards in their regulatory activities unless the agency provides Congress, through the Office of Management and Budget, with an explanation of why using these standards would be inconsistent with applicable law or otherwise impractical. Voluntary consensus standards are technical standards (e.g., specifications of materials, performance, design, or operation; test methods; sampling procedures; and related management systems practices) that are developed or adopted by voluntary consensus standards bodies.

This proposed rule does not use technical standards. Therefore, we did not consider the use of voluntary consensus standards.

Environment

We have considered the environmental impact of this proposed rule and concluded that under figure 2–1, paragraph 34(h), of Commandant Instruction M16475.ID, this rule is categorically excluded from further environmental documentation. This rule fits paragraph 34(h) as it establishes special local regulations. A "Categorical Exclusion Determination" is available in the docket for inspection or copying where indicated under ADDRESSES.

In Opinion and Recommended Decision, Docket No. MC2002–2 (Opinion), the Commission made a commitment to initiate a series of rulemakings designed to facilitate consideration of Postal Service requests based on Negotiated Service Agreements.¹ See, Opinion paras. 1006, 2007, 4026, 4041–2, 7026, and 8023. The first rulemaking, docketed as RM2003–5, developed rules for baseline and for functionally equivalent Negotiated Service Agreements.² It also established the organizational framework for the complete set of Commission rules applicable to requests based on Negotiated Service Agreements.³

² PRC Order No. 1391 established the rules applicable to baseline and functionally equivalent Negotiated Service Agreements. The rules are incorporated into the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure at Subpart L. 39 CFR 3001.190 et seq.

³ Space was reserved at 39 CFR 3001.197 for requests to renew previously recommended

A second rulemaking, docketed as RM2005–2, has been initiated to explore whether improvements can be made to the previously issued rules applicable to functionally equivalent Negotiated Service Agreements. The Postal Service first invoked the rules applicable to functionally equivalent Negotiated Service Agreements in requests filed on June 21, 2004, for proposed Negotiated Service Agreements with Discover Financial Services, Inc. and Bank One Corporation⁴.

The rules applicable to new baseline Negotiated Service Agreements remain untested as the Postal Service has not submitted a request for a new baseline agreement.

This notice and order represents the initiation of a third rulemaking to address rules applicable to: (1) Postal Service requests to extend the duration of previously recommended and currently in effect Negotiated Service Agreements, and (2) Postal Service requests to make modifications to previously recommended and currently in effect Negotiated Service Agreements. Both sets of rules assume that the previously recommended and currently in effect Negotiated Service Agreements were fully litigated in previous dockets where all outstanding issues have been resolved. The rules also assume that the modifications being proposed in the new requests are non-controversial, and do not materially alter the nature of the existing agreements. These are necessary assumptions if the Commission is to provide expedited review and rapid action in issuing recommendations on such requests. The proposed rules, appearing below the Secretary's signature to this notice and order, are discussed below.

Proposed 39 CFR 3001.197 requests to renew previously recommended Negotiated Service Agreements with existing participant(s). Subsection (a) establishes that rule 197 is applicable to requests to extend the duration of a previously recommended and currently in effect Negotiated Service Agreement (the existing agreement). The intent is to limit use of the rule to instances where the proposed agreement and the existing agreement share substantially identical obligations. This restriction is necessary to limit the issues open to litigation, and to otherwise expedite the proceeding as much as possible. In instances where there are no contested issues it should be possible for the Commission to issue its recommendation shortly after the prehearing conference.

Rule 197 allows for three instances where modifications to the terms and conditions (including modifications to the Domestic Mail Classification Schedule) may be appropriate: (1) Correcting a technical defect, (2) updating the schedule of rates and fees, and (3) accounting for an intervening event since the recommendation of the existing agreement. The rule notes that the above modifications should not materially alter the nature of the existing agreement. This notation serves as a reminder of the limited applicability of rule 197, and that modifications of any substance may not allow for expedited review, or in the more extreme case may cause the request to be considered de novo. This rule is inapplicable when material features are proposed to be significantly modified, added, or removed from the existing agreement.

The exceptions are provided predominately to allow for correction of errors or to update the terms and conditions to the current situation when the existing agreement is renewed. The correction of technical defects, for example, allows for correction of scrivener's errors, and to correct for errors in description. An example of an error in description could be an instance of where the parties to the contract, the Commission, and the participants in the original docket understood the intent of a term or condition, but what was actually described in the documentation was technically not correct. Thus, the exception would allow the documentation to be corrected or clarified.

Updating the schedule of rates and fees refers to updating the schedule of rates and fees to reflect the current conditions at the time the Negotiated Service Agreement is extended. It does not refer to a wholesale revamping of the schedule of rates and fees to accommodate new or remove existing incentives, or which change the underlying nature of the existing agreement.

Accounting for intervening events since the recommendation of the existing agreement refers to an internal or an external event, typically unanticipated or unforeseen, that has occurred since recommendation of the agreement and that has an impact on some aspect of the agreement. For example, a merger, a change in the nature of a provided postal service, or an external economic occurrence that forces a change in business plans could be intervening events. It is important to stress that the more significant the event and the associated modification required, the less applicable rule 197 becomes and the more likely that the request would have to be considered de novo.

Subsections (a)(1) through (7) highlight particular areas of interest to the Commission in reviewing requests to renew existing agreements. Supplemental testimony might be required to fully comply with these subsections.

Subsection (a)(1) requires identification of the record testimony from the existing agreement docket, or any other previously concluded docket, on which the Postal Service proposes to rely. The identified record testimony will form the basis of the record of the instant request, with supplemental testimony completing the record where necessary.

Subsection (a)(2) focuses on the modifications that are being proposed to be made to the agreement, which includes the terms and conditions of the actual contract and the contents of the Domestic Mail Classification Schedule as previously recommended by the Commission and approved by the Governors of the United States Postal Service. It requires a "from to" description of all proposed modifications to the agreement's documentation.

Subsection (a)(3) requires an explanation or reason for the modifications that are being proposed to be made to the agreement. It focuses on describing the technical defect, rationale for revising the schedule of rates and fees, or intervening event, if any, that has necessitated a proposed modification.

Subsection (a)(4) requires the Postal Service to provide all studies pertinent to the request which have been completed since the recommendation of the existing agreement. These studies are likely to be probative of the level of success of the existing agreement or they might shed light on the proposals being made in the request.

Subsection (a)(5) requires a financial analysis applicable to the existing agreement comparing actual performance with predicted performance. Because the request for extending the duration must occur before the actual termination date of the existing agreement, an allowance is made for a final projection based on actual data. Except for the final projection, all of the data required to comply with this subsection previously should have been collected as required by the existing agreement's data collection plan.⁵ The intent of this subsection is to facilitate the continuation of beneficial agreements.

⁴ Negotiated Service Agreements with existing participant(s), and at 39 CFR 3001.198 for requests to modify previously recommended Negotiated Service Agreements.

⁴ Request of the United States Postal Service for a Recommended Decision on Classifications, Rates and Fees to Implement Functionally Equivalent Negotiated Service Agreement with Discover Financial Services, Inc., June 21, 2004; Request of the United States Postal Service for a Recommended Decision on Classifications, Rates and Fees to Implement Functionally Equivalent Negotiated Service Agreement with Bank One Corporation, June 21, 2004.

Subsection (a)(6) requires a financial analysis to be performed over the duration of the extended agreement. The analysis is to be performed utilizing the methodology employed by the Commission in its recommendation of the existing agreement. Utilizing the Commission's methodology to the maximum extent possible should avoid the need to re-examine and possibly relitigate methodology-related issues, which should result in an expedited proceeding. The financial analysis will weigh heavily in the Commission's recommendation.

Subsection (a)(7) requires the Postal Service to identify circumstances that are unique to the request. This is a catch-all provision where the proponents can provide the Commission with additional information pertinent to the Commission's analysis. For example, any change in a service, change in a mailer's business plans, or change in the interaction between the mailer and the Postal Service since the initial recommendation that potentially bears on the Commission's recommendation should be discussed.

Subsection (b) requires the Postal Service to provide written notice of its request to certain participants who are assumed to be those potentially interested in the proceeding. This is in addition to the public notice that will result from filing the request. The requirement balances the Commission's intent to limit the time period for intervention which will help expedite consideration of requests under this rule, and the requirement for interested participants to be adequately notified of a pending proceeding.

Subsection (c) establishes that a prehearing conference will be scheduled for each request. At the time of the prehearing conference, participants shall be prepared to address whether or not it is appropriate to proceed under the rules for renewing existing agreements, and whether or not there are any material issues of fact that require discovery or evidentiary hearings. The Commission will promptly determine, on the basis of materials submitted with the request and argument presented at or before the prehearing conference, whether or not it is appropriate to proceed under these rules and what direction the proceeding should follow. If it is determined that it is not appropriate to proceed under 39 CFR 3001.197, the Commission shall proceed under 39 CFR 3001.195. After experience is gained operating under rule 197(c), and the review of Negotiated Service Agreements becomes routine, the Commission will entertain proposals to further streamline the early phases of the proceeding.

Proposed 39 CFR 3001.198 requests to modify previously recommended Negotiated Service Agreements.

Subsection (a) establishes that rule 198 is applicable to requests to modify a previously recommended and currently in effect Negotiated Service Agreement (the existing agreement). The intent of the rule is to expedite proceedings where limited modifications are being proposed that do not materially alter the nature of the agreement. The rule limits modifications to those: (1) Correcting a technical defect, (2) accounting for unforeseen circumstances not apparent when the existing agreement was first recommended, and (3) accounting for an intervening event since the recommendation of the existing agreement. The allowed modifications are not meant to include instances where a material feature is proposed to be significantly modified, added, or removed from the existing agreement. Restricting the allowable types of modifications is necessary to limit the issues open to litigation, and to otherwise expedite the proceeding as much as possible. The proceeding should take considerably less time to review, depending upon the extent of the modifications, than having to review the entire agreement de novo.

The correction of technical defects and accounting for intervening events since the recommendation of the existing agreement were discussed above in proposed rule 197. Accounting for unforeseen circumstances not apparent when the existing agreement was recommended is intended to allow for modifications to be made after some experience has been gained operating under the agreement. For example, it might not be initially recognized that there is a more advantageous method of performing a specific function under the agreement. In such an instance, it might be appropriate to modify the agreement to reflect utilization of the more advantageous method.

Subsections (a)(1) through (6) highlights particular areas of interest to the Commission in reviewing requests to modify existing agreements. Supplemental testimony might be required to fully comply with these subsections. Subsection (a)(1) requires identification of the record testimony from the existing agreement docket, or any other previously concluded docket, on which the Postal Service proposes to rely. The identified record testimony will form the basis of the record of the instant request, with supplemental testimony completing the record where necessary.

Subsection (a)(2) focuses on the modifications that are being proposed to be made to the agreement, which includes the terms and conditions of the actual contract and the contents of the Domestic Mail Classification Schedule as previously recommended by the Commission and approved by the Governors of the United States Postal Service. It requires a "from to" description of all proposed modifications to the agreement's documentation.

Subsection (a)(3) requires an explanation or reason for the modifications that are being proposed to be made to the agreement. It focuses on describing the technical defect, unforeseen circumstance, or intervening event that has necessitated the proposed modification.

Subsection (a)(4) requires the Postal Service to provide all studies pertinent to the request which have been completed since the recommendation of the existing agreement. These studies are likely to be probative of the level of success of the existing agreement or they might shed light on the proposals being made in the request.

Subsection (a)(5) requires a financial analysis to be performed over the duration of the extended agreement. It should be performed only if the proposed modification has an effect upon the financial analysis in the opinion recommending the existing agreement. The analysis is to be performed utilizing the methodology employed by the Commission in its recommendation of the existing agreement. Utilizing the Commission's methodology, to the maximum extent possible, will avoid the need to reexamine and possibly relitigate methodology-related issues, which should result in an expedited proceeding.

Subsection (a)(6) requires the Postal Service to identify circumstances that are unique to the request. This is a catch-all provision where the proponents can provide the Commission with additional information pertinent to the Commission's analysis. For example, any change in a service, change in a mailer's business plans, or change in the interaction between the mailer and the Postal Service since the initial recommendation that potentially bears on the Commission's recommendation should be discussed.

Subsections (b) and (c) parallel the notice and prehearing conference requirements discussed above for 39 CFR 3001.197(b) and (c).

Comments. By this order, the Commission hereby gives notice that comments from interested persons concerning the proposed amendments to the Commission's Rules are due on or before March 14, 2005. Reply comments may also be filed and are due April 11, 2005.

Dreifuss, director of the Commission's Office of the Consumer Advocate, to represent the interests of the general public in this proceeding. Pursuant to this designation, Ms. Dreifuss will direct the activities of Commission personnel assigned to assist her and, upon request, will supply their names for the record. SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Table of Contents

- I. Introduction
- II. NPL Deletion Criteria
- III. Deletion Procedures
- IV. Basis for Intended Site Deletion

I. Introduction

EPA, Region 2, announces its intent to delete the Syosset Landfill Superfund Site (Site) from the NPL. EPA maintains the NPL as the list of sites that appear to present a significant risk to public health or the environment. Sites on the NPL may be the subject of remedial actions financed by the Hazardous Substances Superfund Response Trust Fund (Fund). As described in § 300.425(e)(3) of the NCP, a site deleted from the NPL remains eligible for Fund-financed remedial actions, if conditions at the site warrant such action.

EPA will accept comments concerning the deletion of the Site from the NPL for thirty (30) days after publication of this document in the Federal Register.

Section II explains the criteria for deleting sites from the NPL. Section III discusses procedures that the EPA is using for this action. Section IV discusses how the Site meets the NPL deletion criteria.

II. NPL Deletion Criteria

Section 300.425 (e) of the NCP provides that sites may be deleted from the NPL where no further response is appropriate. In making this determination, EPA, in consultation with the State, will consider whether any of the following criteria have been met:

(i) Responsible parties or other persons have implemented all appropriate response actions required; or,

(ii) All appropriate Fund-financed responses under CERCLA have been implemented, and no further response action by responsible parties is appropriate; or,
