Proposed Project: Training PhDs: Faculty Views on Their Role and Their Institution's Role to Promote the Development of Responsible Researchers—OMB No. 0990-New-Office of Research Integrity (ORI)

Abstract: Preventing research misconduct and abuse is of paramount importance. The Institute of Medicine (IOM) has issued two reports in the last 10 years addressing this concern and clearly states that mentoring is a key factor in promoting the development of responsible researchers. However, little is actually known about the qualities and activities of effective mentors. The proposed project will focus on collecting descriptive information from faculty about their role as advisor and mentor and how faculty members perform these roles in their daily work with PhD candidates. In addition faculty members will be asked to describe how involved their institution is in promoting training or otherwise supporting research mentoring and advising.

The data will come from a random selection of 10,000 investigators drawn from the 2005 and 2006 National Institutes of Health or National Science Foundation grant recipients who have supervised doctoral students in the last five years and are faculty in two types of institutions: (1) medical schools (within universities or stand alone) and (2) all other universities. We are requesting clearance for a one-time web based survey, which will be conducted over one year.
