

4. Do commenters agree with ISE's assertion that market makers in the regular market would reduce the size of their quotations across multiple options series in the regular market because they are at risk of executing the cumulative size of their quotations without an opportunity to adjust their quotes? Please explain, and, to the extent possible, provide supporting data.

5. Do commenters agree with ISE's assertion that the execution of directional complex orders could result in artificially large transactions that distort the market for other related instruments, including the underlying security or related options series? Why or why not? Please explain, and, to the extent possible, provide supporting data.

6. According to the Exchange, the proposed rule change is designed to limit a market maker's risk against executions of directional complex orders. Please provide data, if available, showing how the execution of such complex orders against market maker quotes in the regular market affects a market maker's risk exposure.

7. Do commenters agree with ISE's assertion that the number of directional complex orders is small relative to the total number of complex orders executed on ISE on a given day? Why or why not? Please explain, and, to the extent possible, provide supporting data.

8. Do commenters agree with ISE's assertion that the potential risk to market makers in the regular market of allowing directional complex orders to leg into the regular market outweighs the potential benefits of continuing to allow directional complex orders to interact with the regular market? Why or why not? Please explain, and, to the extent possible, provide supporting data.

9. Do commenters agree with ISE's assertion that the proposed rule change would encourage market makers to provide tighter and more liquid markets on the Exchange? Why or why not? Please explain, and, to the extent possible, provide supporting data.

10. Do commenters believe that any potential benefits to investors resulting from ISE's proposal would exceed any benefits of continuing to allow directional complex orders to interact with the regular market? Why or why not? Please explain, and, to the extent possible, provide supporting data.
