

Implementing the National Nutrition Research Roadmap

The ICHNR will distribute this Roadmap to encourage all relevant federal departments and agencies to coordinate human nutrition research programs to identify solutions to critical, nutrition-related, chronic disease prevention and health promotion issues. The aim is to have participating departments and agencies develop specific goals, objectives, and strategies based on the Roadmap and to identify their unique and collaborative roles, responsibilities, and the required resources and timeframes to accomplish those research goals. Given the strong trans-agency interests in a number of these areas of research, we hope to foster several coordinated research efforts to address research gaps and opportunities identified in this Roadmap and monitor their progress. We also hope the dissemination of these critical research gaps and opportunities will inspire the broader scientific community—at all developmental stages—to accelerate advances in human nutrition research to help improve and sustain the health of all Americans.

Announcement of Requirements and Registration for: “Harnessing Insights From Other Disciplines To Advance Drug Abuse and Addiction Research” Challenge

Authority: 15 U.S.C. 3719.

SUMMARY: The National Institute on Drug Abuse (NIDA), a component of the National Institutes of Health (NIH), is seeking from the general public ideas on how to adapt specialized knowledge from other disciplines to inform new directions and discoveries in drug abuse and addiction research. With the “Harnessing insights from other disciplines to advance drug abuse and addiction research” challenge (the “Challenge”), NIDA aims to gain insights into new methods or approaches that could transform discovery in order to significantly expand our basic knowledge about drug abuse and addiction processes, accelerate the development of novel and more effective prevention and treatment strategies, and/or enhance our capacity to implement, monitor, and improve upon evidence-based interventions.

This Challenge is soliciting written proposals that outline novel approaches to addressing research challenges in the drug use and addiction field by leveraging concepts or technologies from other disciplines. This Challenge is being issued as part of NIDA’s strategic planning process for 2016–2020. Winning proposals may be used to guide the development of new research programs within NIDA.

DATES:

- (1) Submission Period begins May 26, 2015, 9:00 a.m., EST
- (2) Submission Period ends June 22, 2015, 11:59 p.m., EST
- (3) Judging Period June 23, 2015 to July 17, 2015
- (4) Winners Announced July 30, 2015

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Dr. Emily Einstein, Ph.D., Science Policy Branch, Office of Science Policy and Communication, National Institute on Drug Abuse, Phone: 301-443-6071, Email: emily.einstein@nih.gov.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Subject of the Challenge

For the past four decades, the National Institute on Drug Abuse (NIDA) has led the way in supporting research to prevent and treat drug abuse and addiction and to mitigate the impact of their consequences, which include the spread of HIV/AIDS and other infectious diseases. To confront the most pressing aspects of the complex disease of addiction and to tackle its underlying causes, NIDA’s strategic approach is multipronged and includes research programs in basic, clinical, and translational sciences. These programs support studies in genetics, functional neuroimaging, social neuroscience, medication and behavioral therapies, prevention, and health services, including cost-effectiveness research. NIDA’s evolving portfolio has produced a vast body of knowledge that informs strategic directions for future research, and this Challenge represents a new approach to broaden the pool of testable ideas.

Scientific knowledge about drug addiction and its treatment has increased markedly over the past couple of decades. Today, we have a better understanding of the effects of drugs on the brain, as well as new and more effective treatments than were available in the past. A changing healthcare landscape may provide opportunities to further enhance the quality of addiction prevention and treatment. Still, addiction remains a pressing public health issue, and this Challenge seeks to accelerate progress in the field of drug abuse and addiction research by incentivizing a broader community of stakeholders—including those not formally involved in biomedical or addiction-related disciplines—to propose new ideas or innovations that leverage concepts or technologies from other disciplines to advance drug abuse and addiction research.

While preparing their proposals, applicants should bear in mind NIDA’s traditional priority areas, persistent roadblocks that hamper progress, and evolving and emerging opportunities. Some illustrative examples are discussed below; however, proposals may address any challenge within the drug use and addiction field.

NIDA priority areas. NIDA’s charge, to bring the power of science to bear on drug abuse and addiction, has two critical components. The first is the strategic support and conduct of research across a broad range of disciplines. The second is ensuring the rapid and effective dissemination and implementation of the results of that research to significantly improve
